

TWU and IAM Reach Seniority Integration Agreement
April 29, 2013

Reactive Media Statement

We are pleased the Transport Workers Union (TWU) and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers (IAM) have reached a negotiated agreement that outlines how the unions will manage the seniority integration process for their mutual workgroups. This agreement was reached ahead of the deadline included in the TWU's Memorandum of Understanding, and represents significant progress as we continue to move toward closing our merger with US Airways.

Additional Talking Points

- We are pleased the TWU and IAM have reached an agreement about the seniority integration process for the Mechanic & Related employees, Material Logistics Specialists, Maintenance Control Technicians, and Fleet Service Clerks.
- Reaching an agreement this quickly, and outside of arbitration is a significant accomplishment and not very common in a typical airline merger.
- For these workgroups, seniority will be determined by a person's date of entry into their basic classification, as set forth in the existing collective bargaining agreements and the current seniority lists as maintained by AA and US Airways for each such group.
- If two people have the same date of entry, the seniority integration will be determined by their dates of hire, and then, if necessary, by the last four digits of their social security number (the person with the lower social security number will be assigned a lower seniority number, thus having higher seniority).
- The agreement was reached far in advance of the deadline outlined in the TWU's MOU (120 days from the Plan or Reorganization being submitted).
- The AFL-CIO sent a letter to the TWU and IAM presidents urging them to consider sharing representation rights if the merger is closed. This approach would be similar to the CWA and IBT partnership at US Airways, the Airline Customer Service Employee Association (ACSEA).
- American's other TWU-represented workgroups (the Ground School & Simulator Pilot Instructors, Simulator Technicians and Dispatchers) are represented by the TWU at US Airways as well, so the TWU will manage the seniority integration process for those workgroups internally.
