Item 5. Other Events

On February 15, 1997, at approximately 12:01 a.m. EST, the Allied Pilots Association ("APA" -- the union that represents pilots at American Airlines, Inc. ("American"), the principal subsidiary of AMR Corporation) initiated a strike against American. Immediately thereafter, however, President Clinton intervened and appointed a Presidential Emergency Board ("PEB"), pursuant to his authority under the Railway Labor Act. The effect of President Clinton's actions was to stop the strike and begin a process during which the PEB will review the positions advocated by American and the APA and propose a solution. The PEB's recommendation is expected by mid-March 1997. At this time it is unclear what resolution will be proposed by the PEB or whether it will be acceptable to both parties. If the PEB resolution is not accepted by both parties (or if the parties do not reach some other agreement), and unless the President and/or the Congress take additional action, either party will be permitted to resort to self-help remedies 30 days after the PEB makes its recommendation to the President. The self-help remedies include, but are not limited to, a strike by the members of the APA. Any work stoppage by the APA members would have a material adverse impact on AMR Corporation.
