Hello from Mexico City

Posted by Ad Torno in News on Mar 13, 2013 10:10 AM

I will be posting a blog later this week on the big oneworld announcement involving LATAM, but I wanted to say that I am visiting our team in Mexico City, and feel super charged about the great work they are doing. We had a Town Hall yesterday afternoon, which involved a great discussion. We will post photos. Right now I am about to begin a Leadership Meeting, followed by another Town Hall. This one will have reservations dept staff colleagues, as well as sales, accounting, administration and HR. We will then head out to the airport for a Town Hall with our colleagues located out there.

What a gorgeous morning it has been in Mexico City. The weather and people are terrific. You should visit. I went for a brisk early morning run through the parks in the center of the city. Only in this business can you enjoy such things on a grand scale. Well...off to work again!

Did you know that AA has over 900 employees in Mexico, and that outside of the United States it has the largest collection of AAsers than any other country in the world?

Talk to you soon.

Mr Art, as I told you yesterday, we are really excited to have you here! As Alma said you are very approachable and we appreciate that. I'm a huge fan of AA's new image and branding, great is a terrific tool for all AA employees. Now we can share ideas and improve our daily job. I hope someday we can make that race not only in MEX, maybe I'm a dreamer but I will love to make a race in DFW or any other city (with AA coworkers around the world) and why not with our Premium Customers, we know they do marathons all around the world. Thanks again for coming to MRO 😊

Thanks for your visit Art, you're always welcome to our city. I have to tell you everything you explain about the merger was realistic and I personally like to hear it that way, because you talk with facts and not just "sugar-coated". I hope this merger works out very well for all of us at AA meaning more jobs and growing opportunities.

Maria and Edna,
I promise to return to your beautiful and modern city again, very soon. During my previous visit I was so very impressed with our team and the offices themselves. You might recall that I have a favorite house which sits high in the hills above the city. I always enjoy my trips to Monterrey!
