WHAT WILL THE NEW AIRLINE LOOK LIKE?

- This is a historic day as American and US Airways have agreed to join together to create the new American Airlines.
- The new American will have an expanded global network, a strong financial foundation, a modern, efficient fleet and the industry's best people.
- In all, the combined airline will have more than 6,700 daily flights to 336 destinations in 56 countries across the globe.
- The new American expects to keep all hubs now served by both airlines and expand service in non-hub cities, providing more travel options for their customers and more opportunities for their people.
- The new American's headquarters will be in Dallas-Fort Worth, with the combined company also keeping a significant presence in Phoenix.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR CUSTOMERS?

- The new American will be part of a bigger, even stronger airline, with a broader network serving more customers.
 - Ultimately giving American customers access to:
 - 3,000 more flights a day
 - Added service to 48 domestic and 14 international destinations not currently served
 - The most service up and down the East Coast, across the Central regions of the U.S., and a stronger network on the West Coast
 - More than 300 additional mainline aircraft to take customers more places across the globe
- We expect the combined airline will allow for operational and financial stability and strength, ultimately resulting in an enhanced experience for its customers, as it can invest more in new products and technologies to appeal to the modern customer.
- At this time, American Airlines and US Airways remain separate companies.
- Each company will maintain its current loyalty program, which means American will maintain its AAdvantage program, other customer service programs, and its current relationships with oneworld and other airline partners.
- AAdvantage® Miles earned by customers are secure and existing miles will continue to be honored.
- You can continue to count on American for excellent service and safe, reliable travel.
- We expect the merger process to close in the third quarter of 2013, subject to customary approvals and closing conditions.

WHY THIS, WHY NOW?

- American conducted an objective and thorough review of scenarios for the future and determined that this combination delivers the most value for its stakeholders and the best outcome for its customers and people.

- Both American and US Airways have proud histories and look forward to their bright future as they establish the new American.
